Registration for Graduate Diploma in Acupuncture Course

Singapore College of Traditional Chinese Medicine, founded in 1953 by the Singapore Chinese Physicians' Association, is a leading TCM professional institution to train on Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) and Acupuncture, provide continuous training opportunities to the TCM Practitioners and Acupuncturists to strengthen their professional knowledge and conduct TCM talks to the general public to promote healthcare awareness.

Graduate Diploma in Acupuncture course is a two-year part-time training program specially designed for western medical trained doctors and dentists. Candidates could expect to learn the fundamental TCM theories, TCM diagnostics, knowledge and techniques of acupuncture and moxibustion, and clinical practice. Upon completion of the course, candidates are required to sit for the college graduation examination. Candidate who passes the college graduation examination would then be eligible to register for the Singapore

Acupuncturists Registration Examination (SARE) conducted by TCM Practitioners Board.

The course is scheduled to commence on 16 April 2017. Details of the course can be obtained at the college website:
